Member firms of the KPMG international network must demonstrate their commitment to the highest standards of quality in audit compliance, and apply approaches, methodology and technological solutions that have been approved centrally, which enable KPMG partners and professionals to provide agreed and consistent services globally. Quality control at KPMG is a comprehensive and detailed process.

The quality control process is split into stages: the quality performance review program (“QPR”) and assessment of the existing risk management controls and processes (“Risk & Compliance”).

QPR is performed by experienced partners from other KPMG offices who did not participate in the audit engagement subject to review. The main requirements on the annual QPR can be summed up as follows:

independent partners review 5-10% of the total number of hours spent on engagements for the company's clients. The review takes approximately 1-2% of the total time spent on the selected engagement.

The work selected for review is often high-risk work. Furthermore, each of our audit partners should undergo an engagement review at least once every three years irrespective of his/her client portfolio.

The Risk & Compliance review is also performed by experienced partners. The review includes the review and testing of risk management documentation, procedures and control. An office is allocated a specific rating based on the results of the annual review.

KPMG always prioritized quality control and risk management issues. At present, dedicated risk management partner and principal work at KPMG's office in Moscow, while a partner and senior manager are responsible for the organization of quality review. The employees holding key quality control and risk management positions are assisted by several other partners and managers, for example, Quality Control Reviewing Partners for audits with specific risks and from the Department of Professional Practice, who perform the mandatory repeat review of all the auditor's reports issued by KPMG.

JSC KPMG is a member of Self-Regulatory Organization of Auditors 'Russian Union of Auditors' (Association); Principal Registration Number of Entry (PRNE) No. 11603053203 in State Register of Auditors and Audit Organizations.
